FALSE REPORTS AS TO ROOSEVELT'S
VELTS VIEWS ON RATES.

RECOMMENDS REGULATION

Washington Gossiping Over Situation—Wonders Just How Strongly Roosevelt Will Stand.

(From William Wolf Smith.)

Washington, D. C., November 16.—Special correspondence.—During the summer the public was entertained with articles appearing from time to time in various newspapers to the effect that the views of President Roosevelt on the railroad rate question had materially changed and that when the session of Congress opened it would be found that he was not nearly as much in earnest as he had theretofore been reported to be. Such articles usually went on to say how the sentiment throughout the country was changing in favor of the railroads, and predicted that no action would be taken by Congress. These predictions have scarcely been verified. President Roosevelt has come out more strongly than ever in favor of the passage of some bill that will make the government the deciding factor between shippers and carriers in the matter of railroad rates, and he is receiving hearty support from members of Congress, of both parties and both Houses. In fact the situation from the railroad standpoint seems to be graver today than ever before and the educational campaign which they conducted at great expense and through numerous agents seems to have wholly failed to produce the results anticipated. Last week the Association in session in this city passed a resolution cordially endorsing "the plans for railway regulation proposed by President Roosevelt and recommend that such railway rate regulation be enacted by Congress at its next session." The passage of this resolution was preceded by considerable wire pulling although not of the kind reported in the press, as some of the most actively engaged in opposing rate regulation, who were reported as being here for that purpose, were not here and those who were here took no part in the discussion. At the joint banquet of the National Hardware Association and the American Hardware Manufacturers' Association, Representative Burton of Ohio was enthusiastically applauded when he declared that there should be no rebates granted to any favored merchant or manufacturer, that terminal charges should be made equal to all and that there should be a general lowering of rates.

A gentleman who is strongly opposed to the President's policy and who has toured the country this summer attending conventions of various sorts to ascertain the sentiment on this subject, told me that while he was satisfied the conservative business element in this country was opposed to government supervision of railway rates, was surprised at the determination shown by President Roosevelt. "I was told by some gentlemen who saw the President today," he said, "that the President was absolutely rabid on the subject, and that he denounced the railroads in the strongest terms imaginable. He has made up his mind that he is going to get railroad rate legislation out of Congress this year." I quote the above as an evidence that the President has not weakened, inspired reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Senator Hemenway, of Indiana, who is in town for a few days, says that he sees no reason why a measure which will correct the evils complained of in connection with the railroad rates, should not pass the Senate at himself as to the specific form in which it should take. Senator Hemenway said he was willing to subscribe to the general principle of regulation. Representative Overstreet, also of Indiana, says the House will certainly pass a comprehensive measure, and believes the Senators will do likewise. He knew the President believed in and would advocate the enacting of a law dealing with the general principle of rate regulation, but did not think the President was wedded to it.

The firm of publicists which had charge of the work in the West originated in Boston and then opened an office in New York. It did very well as long as it stuck to its original line of work, which was to write articles for publication in newspapers or magazines submitted strictly on their merits as news, making no charge for the same. Of course they received their pay from the parties interested in having the articles published and as long as the matter was good news they secured the publication of a considerable amount of it. For instance, on one occasion when a great ship was to be launched in a foreign shipyard, a capable man was sent abroad and articles were supplied to the magazines and newspapers describing the ship, its launching, etc. These articles were well received as the launching was a legitimate matter of news and the fact that the ship itself and the line operating it received considerable free publicity by this means was not held against the press agents. But when they undertook a one-sided campaign and attempted to secure the publication of matter by buying space in the news and editorial columns, they came a "cropper." I am told that they had maintained luxurious headquarters in Chicago and had a small army of employees. They had a handsome suite of rooms in this city and four or five men working for them last spring. This indicates that the campaign was conducted on a scale of luxury unknown in any other press campaign and is quite a contrast between the modest expenditures of the organization which started the railroad rate agitation, estimated at less than $50,000, including all the expenses of its press bureau and the tons of literature it distributed. It is too bad that so much good railroad money was wasted.

any particular form of bill. "We all want remedial legislation," said Mr. Overstreet "and we expect to get it, but just what it will be I am unable to predict."

Representative Curtis of Kansas says that there is no doubt as to where the people of this state stand on the question. "The President will find abundant support among our people in his endeavor to get relief from the imposition of the railroads," he said. "The delegation from Kansas is practically unanimous on this subject as we believe something should be done to relieve effectively the condition that in many instances has become intolerable."

The above is merely a sample of the way in which Senators and members are talking and show that the President will have an enthusiastic support on this question. To be sure, there will be members of Congress and Senators who will oppose him as there is a great diversity of honest opinion on this question. The railroads will seek to delay action by all the parliamentary tricks which are known and will be represented here during the winter by many able men, among them being a number of former members of the Senate and of the House. Former Senator Funkhouser of West Virginia has been working on this subject for a number of years and is admirably informed. Mr. Samuel Spencer, President of the Southern Railroad will this session as he has done for several sessions, represent the combination of railroads formed by the Morgan interests in opposition to this legislation. Mr. Spencer has a beautiful home in Washington and it is said that Mr. Stuyvesant Fish, President of the Illinois Central will also have a residence here this winter and possibly others of like prominence.

Considerable interest attaches to the announcement that the general publicity bureau of the railroad combination would suspend operations as its work had been very unsatisfactory. It is said that nearly two million dollars, (although this figure is probably excessive) was raised by assessing the railroad for this publicity campaign and expensive headquarters were opened in Chicago and various Western cities and many were sent throughout the country to interview country editors and to persuade them by one means and another to publish matter supplied by the bureau. Offices were also maintained in Boston and New York and some work was attempted in Washington. The Washington work was very unsuccessful. It opened with the circulation of what purported to be accounts of the hearings before the Senate Committee last spring. These accounts were prepared by parties who knew very little of the subject, and who could only see one side of it. They were circulated to the newspapers and sent by mail to the newspapers and owing to inaccuracies and the unknown source from which they emanated little attention was paid to them by the correspondents here and they received scant consideration at the hands of the editors throughout the country. Occasionally a paper or correspondent would use the matter but as it was often prepared in advance and the witnesses when heard did not say the things attributed to them, and in some cases did not appear at all, this class of matter was early discredited. Since then nothing has been attempted with the newspaper correspondents by this particular bureau although they receive by mail a large quantity of matter from other sources, some of which is available, but most of which is not. The local press representatives of the railroads supply an occasional letter to a few correspondents whose papers are known to be favorable to the railroad interests.

The firm of publicists which had charge of the work in the West originated in Boston and then opened an office in New York. It did very well as long as it stuck to its original line of work, which was to write articles for publication in newspapers or magazines submitted strictly on their merits as news, making no charge for the same. Loaded Shotgun Which Bert Morris Was Taking from Wagon Was Accidentally Discharged.

Bert Morris, aged 28 years, was almost instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun while removing the weapon from a wagon on the Charles Morris farm near Sharon on Tuesday evening. The charge of double B shot entered his left side just above the heart. The young man had been hunting rabbits just before sundown and upon returning had left the gun in a vehicle near the barn while he partook of his supper. He had gone to get the firearm and put it away for the night when the terrible accident which resulted in his death occurred.

Claiming that cattle pastured on a piece of land at the intersection of Eastern avenue and the Beloit road were poisoned by a brook whose waters are alleged to be tainted by acid and waste-products from the sugar factory, Lawrence J. Cronin has commenced an action to recover $200 damages from the Sugar Co. and seeks an injunction to restrain that concern from allowing its sewer to discharge into the said stream. The plaintiff has had some twenty-five head of the pasture and claims that several were made very sick and that one cow died as the result of partaking of the water. He also maintains that the flow of the stream, augmented by the sewer tributary, is kept at a high stage

MYTHICAL WEALTH HELD AS A LURE

OLD, OLD BUNCO GAME THAT IS NOT YET PLAYED OUT.

THE MYSTERIOUS RELATIVE

Madison Man Recently Received a Letter Including Promised Wealth and Position.

Postal authorities for many years have endeavored to capture the "bunco" artists, who have made Spain, or artists, who have made Spain, their headquarters and have preyed upon unsuspecting Americans with tales of imprisonment and mysterious wealth that only need a little financial aid to enable the susceptible to realize a great fortune. The game is as old as the hills and is still worked with success in many localities. With but few variations the story is always the same. The prospective victims are evidently carefully picked and something of their family history is learned before the game is started.

Recently Charles Naffz, a Madison business man—a druggist, received a letter from one of these bunco men in which untold wealth was promised the recipient if he only followed the directions and added the writer, a poor man, who was imprisoned in a Spanish dungeon but whose daughter was being educated in a convent and whose wealth, several hundred thousand dollars, was in such a secure place that it could not be obtained by anyone unless he was freed. The letter was cleverly constructed and the business man took it to the postal authorities for their examination and the last heard of the matter was that the government officials were investigating the affair.

The game is simple. The writer of the letter professes to have been imprisoned in a Spanish jail for having aided the Cubans to gain their liberty. In the olden days the man was imprisoned because he had aided the Cuban rebellion, but the Cuban war is more up to date now. His young daughter is in a convent and it is for her sake he writes the touching appeal. Of course the person receiving the letter is supposed to be some distant relative of the writer whose whereabouts he has just discovered. Persons of foreign birth or connections are usually chosen by these crooks for this reason.

What Is Needed. The writer has gained the confidence of a poor Padre, who would aid him if he could, but is unable owing to the strict watch kept. However, letters can be sent to him by this means. Here some address is given in some remote province of Spain. Money will be needed, but only a little and the sender will be rewarded in astonishing style.

The Daughter. But first the daughter is to be removed from the convent. The American is to practically adopt her and then when she is safe the father will make his escape, again aided by money from his dear American relative. He will at once go to some secret place where he has fabulous sums concealed and regain his fortune hidden away just before his arrest and will then fly to America to see his dear relative and his beloved daughter.

Riches Promised. Not only is immediate wealth promised but the good, kind, guileless American is to be named as one of the holders of the Spanish nobility so wrongfully imprisoned. The daughter is to make her home with them and is to be cared for lavishly by the loving father who will risk everything for her sake. It is a clever game. It has a few trills sometimes, but usually is the same in general tone except the location of the mythical prison and the mythical daughter are always different, and the relatives are also made to order. News for the Railroad Men.

North-Western Road

Engineer Talmadge has returned to work after a few days' layoff. M. A. Crowley, who was relieving him on switch-engine number 737, is again on the extra list.

While at work this morning narrow escape from death had a very narrow margin. A car was derailed and the engine was running at the side of the rails between a car and the engine, ready to pull the pin, when the grab iron to which he was holding broke from the car. He fell between the engine and car but in some manner, which he is himself unable to explain, managed to keep from beneath the wheels.

Tom Murphy of the night round-house force laid off half of last night, being relieved by Walter Seitz.

Frank Pfundtler, bill clerk at the freight depot, visited in Clinton Junction last evening.

Engineer C. B. Smith and Fireman C. A. Yates have returned from a trip on the south end.

Frank Daffy has commenced work at the roundhouse nights, taking the place formerly filled by Tom Goodman.

Drakeham Ed Clifford is relieving Cornelius Cronin on the switch-engine.

Will Davy, night-miller at the round-house, was off duty till twelve o'clock last night, being relieved by Ralph Palmer of the day force.

The Chicago & North-Western is distributing folders giving information concerning the industrial opportunities on its lines.

A list of industries now wanted is given, together with a considerable list containing brief description of factory buildings now available for immediate occupancy.

Other business opportunities are enumerated, and an outline is given of the new lines being built by the road to open up new territory hitherto undeveloped. Other advertising literature includes a circular regarding the enormous crop being harvested in the northwest and announcing homeseekers' excursions in that region and a pamphlet illustrating and describing the new equipment of the "Overland Limited," its crack Pacific coast train.

The first of Madison delegation that passes through Janesville, en route from Madison to Ann Arbor, Michigan, to witness the Wisconsin-Michigan football game at the latter place Saturday was aboard the Madison-Chicago passenger that arrived here at 10:30 this morning and left five minutes later. Those traveling on excursion tickets will go over the St. Paul to Chicago and return via the Northwestern.

Charles Billeit son of James Billeit, whose farm is east of the city, says the Whitewater Reclaimer, was quite badly injured while braking at Milton, last Saturday morning. It seems Billeit had started to climb down the side of the car which was in motion, when the iron step he was standing on gave away, letting him fall. He hit on his back and across a switch rail. The bruises he received were numerous and painful and for a time it was thought he had fractured three ribs. He was brought to this city Saturday morning on the milk train and was examined by Dr. Miller who said Billeit's bones were intact, but could not state at that time the extent of the internal injuries he might have suffered. The victim has been resting since his accident and his friends look forward to a speedy recovery.

General News. After all it seems as if the long drawn-out controversy over rates on rice to concern points has not been satisfactorily settled, as it was supposed to have been at the recent conference in St. Louis and by the decision of an arbitration committee. Some of the New Orleans people are not at all pleased, and it threatens to refuse to abide by the result are carried out, there is likely to be another rate war.

The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific have buried the hatchet and instead of prolonging the fight for right-of-way through Box Canyon in Arizona, will share the expense of a single track line and use it jointly. The Santa Fe will resume building toward Duncan, through the Gila Valley. The Gila Valley, Globe & Northern will build from San Carlos to Fort Thomas.

Word has been received in New York to the effect that unless the city council of Minneapolis ceases trying to force the Great Northern road to make certain improvements in the way of steel bridges, the vast improvements contemplated in that city may be abandoned. This would mean a great loss to the city and influences are being brought to bear to try to avert such a consequence.

and that an offensive odor emanates therefrom. The plaintiff will be represented at the trial in the forthcoming term of court by Ruger & Ruger. The Rock County Sugar Co., in an answer filed by its attorney, W. G. Wheeler, denies that acids or other substances of an injurious nature are used in the manufacture of its product, or that such vast quantities of water are discharged from the sewer into the brook as to make the flow equal to that in the time of spring freshets and takes exception to the claim that the sewer is responsible for any bad odor.

Martin Paulson has brought suit against the Sugar Co. for $20,000 damages for injuries sustained by a team of horses that were driven into a pile of lime near the factory over a year ago and badly burned before they could be extricated. He is represented by Pierce & Fisher and the case will be tried during the November term.

JANESVILLE BOY IS NAMED AS ONE OF ATHLETIC GRAFTERS

Charges Made Against Tom Leahy in Article "Exposing" Athletics at University of Wisconsin.

All Wisconsin with every sportsman in Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan and numerous football enthusiasts everywhere are excited over an article that appears in the Collier's Weekly just out. This sensation is under the caption, "Busting Football Victories," and is one of a series describing the alleged graft in collegiate athletics of the west. Edward S. Jordan, of Boston, is the author. He is a former Wisconsin University student and is known among those from Janesville who are attending the state institution. He holds up to the public gaze all but two of the big gridiron pets. Bush and Bertie are given the credit of being men who stand for all that is high and good in college football, but the rest, including Captain Vanderboon, Albion Finley, and "Dick" Kemp are classed as men who take easy courses of study or are "kept." Professors, whose duty it is to investigate qualifications of players are accused of irregularities or timidity while Graduate Manager Downer, Jordan says, finds himself powerless to execute business according to his good intentions. College policies are also scored severely in one portion of the article and Tom Leahy, ex-captain of the Wisconsin basketball team, whose home is in this city, comes in for charges. These accusations are made in a paragraph describing the attempt to purify badger athletics made last spring and its failure. Jordan says:

"Wisconsin athletics feared last spring that cleanness was to be a permanent ingredient in her athletic policy. To no man was the prospect more offensive than to Edward Vanderboon, president of the athletic association and captain of the football team. He accordingly contrived to make her dishonest. Through a conspiracy with the worst of her athletes, and assisted by the professional on her baseball team, he organized a campaign to elect Captain Tom Leahy of the baseball squad to the chief executive office of the association. Leahy, a professional, feared for his own retention in amateur soliciting and induced the athletes to solicit votes with the statement that if his opponent was elected they were all to be 'shown up.' Athletic dirt became an issue and deception won. Immediately the senior controlling body, the council, took up the matter of the eligibility of the men on the team, but Leahy declared that if he was barred there would be no baseball. The faculty committee took the bait, the professionals played through the season. Vanderboon controlled the athletic board, and the defeat of decent Wisconsin aims was complete. It is insignificant that Wisconsin lied to her rivals by playing professionals, but it is indicative of a flabby faculty spine when corruption blinds a student body to the moanings of honesty and frightens a faculty committee into demoralizing impotency."

Mrs. Austin says: "My luckiest stroke will please you. If you love the good old-fashioned flavor."

"The goats are of two breeds, Pocauburg and Soanan," said Mrs. G. L. Cook, in charge of the dairy at the seminary. "None of the girls will be obliged to drink the goats' milk unless she is ill and needs, but any who desire may make it a regular part of their diet."

Sometimes Help the Hair to Go. In any changeable climate the hair is apt to become brittle and to break off stubby here and there. This makes a hair-dressing almost a necessity, especially to ladies. In using a hair dressing why not get the best one that combines with it the efficiency in killing the dandruff germ, the germ that eats the hair out at the roots, causing what is called falling hair, and in time baldness. Newbro's "Herpicide" is that kind of a hair dressing. You have no idea how delightful your scalp will feel, and how stylish your hair will appear, after an application or two of Herpicide. ## = FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, November 16, 1865.—City Items.—The time of evening service in the various city churches has been changed from 7 o'clock to 7 o'clock. The long evenings have rendered this change desirable.

Some much needed repairs are going forward on Milwaukee street bridge. It is a wise precaution to strengthen this structure before the volume of water in the river increases.

No Education to be Allowed Black Man.—The views of the Vicksburg Herald are embraced in the following paragraph, which appeared recently in their paper: "If any Radical was ever black enough in his views to suppose the people of Mississippi would endow negro schools, for their sake to teach the rising chivalry hatred of his former master but his best friend, then such chaps had better take to marching on with John Brown's soul; they will hardly reach the object of their desires short of the locality where John is kicking and waiting. The State has not opened them, nor has she the slightest idea of doing anything of the kind."

Again on the Track.—Another mile dash for $300 between "Joe Davis" and "Sandy" is to come off on the Janesville race track on the Saturday after next. The time may be changed till the Monday after next, which will afford much more railroad accommodations of those from a distance.

"Joe Davis," the victor of the former race, is under the admirable training of Ben Reed, near this city, and will be rode by the same excellent boy jockey who rode him on his winning race.

"Sandy" is in training under a new trainer, and, notwithstanding his last defeat, finds many backers.

Both horses can be backed for $2,000, and leading horsemen of Madison and Janesville being ready with their ventures, but it is decided not to increase the stakes above $300.

Joe's jockey will wear green jacket, white breeches, with boots topped with yellow and crimson cap.

Sandy's jockey will wear striped red and white jacket, white breeches, boots topped with green and blue cap.

December and May wheat prices slightly lower than last week with a weaker feeling for export trade. Cash wheat is still selling at a premium of 2 to 2 1/2c over futures.

Chicago cash corn is off 1/2 to 1c; oats up 1/2 to 1c; barley weaker and lower. The local market for the grain, although good oats are in demand at 1 to 2c above last week. Baled and loose hay is in good demand. In consequence farmers being very busy with corn-husking and other farm work, very little farm produce of any kind is coming in, hence a good demand for what is offered. As oats, potatoes and baled hay are being brought in by car-load lots, the present local prices will probably not advance further.

SORES THAT DO NOT HEAL

Whenever a sore or ulcer does not heal, no matter on what part of the body it may be, it is because of a poisoned condition of the blood. This poison may be the remains of some constitutional trouble; the effect of a long spell of sickness, which has left this vital stream polluted and weak, or because the natural refuse matter of the body, which should pass off through the channels of nature, has been left in the system and absorbed into the circulation. It does not matter how the poison became entrenched in the blood, the fact that the sore is there and does not heal is evidence of a deep, underlying cause. There is nothing that causes more discomfort, worry and anxiety than a festering, discharging sore that resists treatment. The very sight of it is abhorrent and suggests pollution and disease; besides the time and attention required to keep it clean and free from other infection. As it lingers, slowly eating deeper into the surrounding flesh, the sufferer grows morbidly anxious, fearing it may be cancerous. Some of those afflicted with an old sore or ulcer know how useless it is to expect a cure from salves, powders, lotions and other external treatment. Through the use of these they have seen the place begin to heal and scab over, and were congratulating themselves that they would soon be rid of the detestable thing, when a fresh supply of poison from the blood would cause the inflammation and old discharge to return and the sore would be as bad or worse than before. Sores that do not heal are not due to outside causes; if they were, external treatment would cure them. They are kept open because the blood is steeped in poison, which finds an outlet through these places. While young people, and even children, sometimes suffer with non-healing sores, those most usually afflicted are persons past middle life. Often, with them, a wart or mole on the face inflames and begins to ulcerate from a little rough handling; or a deep, offensive ulcer develops from a slight cut or bruise. Their vital energies and powers of resistance have grown less, and circulation weaker, and perhaps some taint in the blood, which was held in check by their stronger constitutions of early life, shows itself. It is well to be suspicious of any sore that does not heal readily, because the same germ that produces Cancer is back of every old sore and only needs to be left in the circulation to produce this fatal disease.

There is only one way to cure these old sores and ulcers, and that is to get every particle of the poison out of the blood. For this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, cleanses the blood and makes a permanent cure. S. S. S. enriches and freshens the circulation so that it carries new, strong blood to the diseased parts and allows the place to heal naturally. When this is done the discharge ceases, the sore scabs over and fills in with healthy flesh, and the skin regains its natural color. Book on Sores and ulcers and any medical advice desired will be furnished without charge.

WEATHER FORECAST

Fair, followed by unsettled.

"A lion is known by his paw"—seeing only its paw you could not be persuaded that it was a coyote or jack-rabbit. A store is known by its ads. A man who has never been in this city would be able to identify, unerringly, the enterprising and important stores simply from looking over the ads in this newspaper.

When misappropriated funds are returned to the treasury the old line life insurance companies will be able to declare a good dividend.

The beet sugar factory is running 24 hours a day and will keep up the gain most of the winter. Rock county sugar stands at the head of the list this year.

The active demand for tobacco and the uniformly good prices will stimulate the industry. The acreage in Rock county will doubtless be largely increased another year.

The state capital at Madison will cease to be a rendezvous after the boss leaves the state, and the average citizen will no longer be regarded with suspicion when he strolls through the corridors.

The much discussed landslide in Ohio only effected the head of the republican ticket. Governor Herrick was personally unpopular and deserved defeat. The balance of the ticket was elected by good majorities.

State Insurance Commissioner Zeno M. Host, gave some good advice to Fraternal Insurance Societies, in a recent address. He tells them that their only salvation is in a reserve fund sufficiently large to protect liabilities.

The merchants of the city are enjoying a good trade, which is likely to continue during the winter. There is more ready money in southern Wisconsin today than at any time in the history of the state and the enterprising business men are gathering in their share of the shekels.

A factory in Chicago which employs 40 men, has become so thoroughly tired of the tyranny of organized labor, that the management has decided to leave the city. Their men are only permitted to do a certain amount of work and a reduction of 10 per cent in the output has recently been ordered by the union.

LIBERTY VERSUS LICENSE.

Herbert Myrick, editor of the Orange Judd Farmer, recently delivered an address on "Privilege Corruption and Craft," before the national convention of the Citizens' Industrial Association at St. Louis. After discussing some of the economic questions of the day he had this to say about monopolies of both capital and labor:

Liberty means law, license means anarchy. Liberty involves control of self and recognition of others' rights; anarchy means each individual a law unto himself.

"Am I not at liberty to run my own business in my own way?" cries the employer, when first confronted by some unreasonable labor demand. The law answers: "No, you must comply with certain legislation enacted by the elected of all the people, to safeguard the health and welfare of those who assist in producing your goods, with due regard also for those who consume them. Your employees must not be children of tender years, nor exposed to risk of life or limb. Subject to such reasonable regulations for mutual welfare, you may conduct your business in your own way."

"Can't we form a trust, shut out competition, jack up prices and have all the great profits of this industry to ourselves?" cry the capitalists in a certain line of business. The law answers: "No, the legislature does not tolerate monopoly or extortion. You may co-operate to reduce your expenses, to improve your service, thus properly increasing your earnings, but further than this, you shall not go. Particularly must you not seek by unfair means or special privilege to prevent or destroy fair competition."

The labor union agitator says: "What a cinch if we can only compel all the labor in our trade to join the union, force up wages, cut down hours, reduce output, limit apprentices, make our own rules, keep others out of our monopoly, and squeeze the industry out of its very last cent for our own pockets."

But the law says such a labor trust is not only illegal, but interferes with the freedom of employer and employee, and deprives both of the God-given right to buy and sell their labor as they please, subject only to laws that insure liberty.

Defiance of Law.
But the employer and the capitalist trust do not always obey the law. Too often they break the law or evade it, to their great profit, to the detriment of their competitors and robbery of the public.

Emboldened by these examples in high places, and seeing the perpetrators of such lawlessness living not only unpunished but apparently in honor and assuredly in luxury, the labor agitator says to himself: "To hell with the law. I'm going to work the union for all there is in it for me, just as the big fellows skin the trusts, boss political parties, rob state and city governments, fleece syndicates, and milk insurance companies."

In all such matters, practice soon makes perfect. But it is easier to impose upon and mislead the rank and file of labor unions, than it is the general public, shareholders or insurance policy holders. Why? Because though all people may have similar confidence, the unionist is the only one who has taken an oathbound pledge to obey the dictates of his organization. Not until long after he has taken the pledge is the fact impressed upon him, in every possible way, that his loyalty to the union comes before his duty to the state or to his God. Yet such is the oath of the typographical union, for instance.

Now suppose each policy holder in the New York Company for the Mutual Insurance of the McCurdy family had taken an oath to obey the orders of that association. Having the policy holders thus bound to them, as its members are bound to a labor union, the McCurdys could have swiped all the assets of that vast insurance union instead of "milking" it for such few millions that the head of the gang exclaims in effect, "Gentlemen, I stand amazed at my own moderation!"

Extortion is Practiced by Both Capital and Labor.

and the masses foot the bills! Nothing is plainer than that the great body of people are being imposed upon by the labor trust on one side and by the capital trust on the other! It is conservative to say that 90 per cent or more of our total population are victims of a relatively infinitesimal number of men who, as managers of capital trusts or directors of labor trusts, are extorting untold wealth from the body politic. Yet the combined membership of all the trusts, both of labor and capital, is hardly 3 per cent of our total population, is not 5 per cent of our adult population, is not 10 per cent of the so-called male workers in the country.

Yet we, the great masses, the 90 per cent or more, allow ourselves to be robbed, bled, victimized, deprived of our property and our still more sacred rights, by these relatively minute but organized bodies! And we twist and turn in our fetters, cry aloud for help, endorse fantastic appeals, or chase after extreme reforms, which however desirable, will be a long time coming.

Let us simply cut the Gordian knots that bind us, rise up in our might, put our captors back into their proper place, and then go on about our business of making our own home, occupation, town, county, state and nation the best place on earth in which to live or make a living.

Madison Journal: One of the amusing features of the day is a disposition to deny the right to rejoice over recent elections unless one voted for "Bob" La Follette!

Must Behave in Future.
La Crosse Leader-Press: "People who think in an election will soon learn to think in national elections. Both parties must be on their good behavior in the future."

Time Well Paid For.
Ashland Press: The Minnesota-Wisconsin football game netted $27,715.60, of which Wisconsin gets $13,102.95. Not so bad for the work of eleven men for one hour.

And He is a Bachelor.
Waupaca Leader: Senator W. H. Hatten of New London is being talked of for the compromise republican candidate for governor. Senator Hatten might do, if he would only get rid of a bad habit which threatens to become chronic. He is a bachelor.

Brutality Only Limited.
Chicago Record-Herald: Two of the leading players were removed from the Harvard-Pennsylvania football game last Saturday for slugging. It is pleasing to note that the umpires continue to insist that the brutality shall be limited to back-breaking and gouging.

How Chase Made a Million.
Wausau Record: Chase Osborne, a former Milwaukee newspaper reporter and later an editor at the "Soo," is now a millionaire. But it is to be noted that he quitted the newspaper business several and a large number of moons ago.

All Navies Grow Larger.
Rome Messenger: About half a century ago England took notice of one fleet only, the French. Now things have changed. Japan has revealed her naval power; Italy has a fairly good navy; Wilhelm II rules over Germany and has announced that the country's future welfare must be sought for on the seas; The United States wish to have no rivals on the ocean and Russia is beginning to rebuild her fleet.

Around World in Five Weeks.
Green Bay Gazette: By the record run recently made by the steamship Siberia, having on board the E. H. Harriman and Miss Alice Roosevelt party, the time required for a trip around the world was reduced to a little less than thirty-seven days. The late Jules Verne's imaginary trip of several years ago made in eighty days, has been far surpassed by modern progress.

They Are Bearing Up Bravely.
Evening Wisconsin: The Janesville butchers who were arrested for selling "faced" meats, have admitted their wrongdoing, paid their fines, and "put it up to" the packers. The latter claim that the meat was meant for the people of another state. This will gratify all butchers, but what of the meat consumers in other localities who are supposed to be tough enough to attack embalmed meats?

Problem For Maritime "Gents."
El Paso Herald: Some thousands of maritime gentlemen, one time or another, have engaged in a hunt for a northerly passage between the Atlantic and Pacific without any great degree of success. But a case which was set adrift off Alaska in 1899 by one of the geographical societies has managed to make the trip, being found on the coast of Iceland in June this year. The route is evidently no time saver, however.

Archbishop's Good Stand.
Milwaukee Sentinel: Archbishop Messmer has shown characteristic good sense in opposing a wet blanket upon the proposition to form a federal order of Catholic military orders. He opposes it not only because the name would not sound well, but also because he thinks adherents of the ancient faith organized in fraternal societies would refrain from throwing away their money for parade and lumbrery, and save it for more important work in behalf of religion and the church.

Rockford Fears Diphtheria Wave.
Rockford Register-Gazette: This section of the country has enjoyed comparative immunity from diphtheria for a longer period than usual. The state board of health is sending out warning that another wave of the contagion has set in, placing the public and the local authorities on their guard. It has appeared in about 40 Illinois cities and towns to begin with. It is not so serious a matter as before the discovery of the efficacy of anti-toxin, but it is always bad enough to make people near it feel uncomfortable.

Front-Yard Question in Detroit.
Exchange: A Detroit man has set up a statue of Satan, to show his contempt for the teachings of religion, he being an avowed atheist. It is made as offensive in its display as possible, representing its subject as occupying a pulpit. The statue occupies a conspicuous position in the front yard of his apostle. There is no restraint on religious beliefs in this country, but it is generally considered due to free institutions to observe respect for the sincere beliefs of others. On that basis the advocate of disbelief is not exhibiting a disposition worthy of a place under such privileges. The Detroit turners have bestowed their sanction on the above doings.

No More Tainted Money.
Chicago Inter Ocean: The Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden announced from his Columbus pulpit on Sunday that he would cease his "tainted money" agitation. "The controversy seems happily concluded," he said. "There is no longer reason why any one should hesitate to give his whole heart to the work of foreign missions." Now that Dr. Gladden and his allies are ready to quit, there is, indeed, no reason why others should keep up a needless and detrimental controversy, in the light of the facts which the campaign of Dr. Gladden and his friends conducted has developed. While Dr. Gladden and his friends were railing the heavens, the money which they chose to call "tainted" came right along for foreign missions and other Christian work, and good was done with it. The volume of gifts diminished somewhat, for the men assailed by Dr. Gladden are only human. The real leaders of the Congregational church did what the situation required of them. They decided to decline to discuss this foolish question. They simply ignored Dr. Gladden and his friends and went on attending to the business of the church.

The New Spirit in Politics.
New York Tribune: One of the most significant facts during the recent majority campaign in this city was that wherever and whenever President Roosevelt's name was mentioned, whether in McClellan, Hearst or Evans meetings, it was the signal for tumultuous applause. Perhaps not since the Monroe "era of good feeling" has there ever been a period in American history when a living President was thus acclaimed by representatives of all parties, especially at campaign meetings. This popularity of Theodore Roosevelt is made up of many elements, some personal, some partisan; but for the most part it rests upon the general belief of the people in the President's possession of certain virtues which they admire, and among those, and one of the chief, is his known readiness and courage in denouncing wrong, whether in his own party or among his political opponents, and in standing for what he believes to be the right, even though it contravenes party preference. This independence of the old bitter partisan spirit, with its evasive and apologetic attitude for its own scoundrels and righteous indignation at the scoundrels of other parties, is something unfortunately rather novel in American politics; but nothing in recent years has done more to purify our political atmosphere and to strike at the power of selfish and sinister leadership than the spirit of which President Roosevelt may be regarded as a personification.

Pensions For Millionaires.
Louisville Courier-Journal: The

abuse of the pension system is illustrated in a recent application of a millionaire for a pension. And he got it. It was made possible by the executive order of last year constituting age the only disability necessary for the obtaining of a service pension. In this particular case it was explained that the applicant did not want the pension for the money there was in it, but he simply desired to perfect his record in the civil war. There are other instances, too, of well-to-do veterans who have sought and obtained service pensions because they were eligible and because they alleged that they felt such pensions necessary for the completion of their military career. Technically this may be correct under the pension laws, but morally it is all wrong. It is a disgusting piece of presumption for a millionaire to ask the government for a pension, and it is a pretty display of avarice for a man who is well-to-do to reach his hands into the public treasury. The inception of the pension sprung from an impulse to help those who were deprived of their means of livelihood by reason of deaths and casualties on the federal side during the war. Now it has come to this millionaire stage. Stone gods and tin fishes!

The Disputed Election.

New York Tribune: Nobody for an instant supposes that Mayor McClellan has contemplated any fraud or would accept office with what he believed to be a clouded title. The desperate men intent on continuing in power under his administration notoriously from old time have no such scruple, and their readiness to carry an election by fraud is exactly measured by their need and opportunity. Mr. Hearst, after his own manner, makes declarations which are manifestly extravagant. Nevertheless, there is a residuum of suspicious circumstances which cannot be set down either to sensationalism or stubborn unwillingness to confess defeat. Serious charges which did not originate with Mr. Hearst, but were made by Mr. Jerome and his watchers and by republicans, but the vote declared under grave suspicion and will taint the title of Mayor McClellan if they are not thoroughly investigated and cleared up. On the other hand, it is by no means impossible that frauds of similar character, equally demanding investigation, were committed in the interest of Mr. Hearst. We should much prefer Mr. McClellan to Mr. Hearst in the mayor's chair. We believe that Mr. McClellan will be a better mayor in the future than he has been in the past, owing, as he does, his election—if he really is elected—to republican votes for which he appealed on non-partisan grounds. The power of Murphy, whom he has hitherto so loyally obeyed, is broken; the Tammany machine is disorganized, and Mr. McClellan has an unlooked for opportunity to follow his own highest promptings. On the other hand, we detect Mr. Hearst's political character and distrust his application of vague and impracticable political principles. We think New York would be much better off under Mr. McClellan than under Mr. Hearst. But that consideration is applied to absolutely no weight. The point at issue is whether the very heart of democratic government, the right of the people to cast their votes freely for whomsoever they wish and to have those votes fairly counted is fundamental.

MERRY EVENING FOR COUNTY FATHERS
Officers and Bar Members of Rock Enjoys a Delightful Dancing Party at East-Side Hall.

That the Rock County board of supervisors and the members of the bar appropriated the entertainment arranged in their honor by the officers and deputies of the Court House, was evidenced by the zest and enthusiasm with which they participated in the old and new fashioned dances at East Side Odd Fellows' hall last evening. The festivities opened with an informal reception during which most of those who had come to look on received glasses of such genuine cordiality and warmth that little was needed to persuade an amendment in their plans. Knott & Hatch's orchestra sounded the opening number. There were in the neighborhood of fifty couples on the floor. Old folks and young folks, the crooks, and the Virginians, interspersed with waltzes and two steps, succeeded one another with extra brief intermissions and young people who thought square dances held no charm for them found a fascination in the sometimes simple and often intricate figures, of which they had never dreamed.

The newly decorated hall with its upholstered seats and rectangles of incandescent ceiling lights was a surprise to many and likewise the pleasing lodge room where coffee and sandwiches and cakes were served throughout the evening at six large tables by the ladies' society of the B. O. O. O. O.

The "Home, Sweet Home" number was played at one o'clock this evening and the guests took their departure regretfully, one and all declaring that they had spent one of the most enjoyable evenings within their recollections.

The arrangements and reception committee consisted of the Misses Genevieve Rich, Belle Stoddard, Mabel Lee and Frances Ryckman, and Mrs. C. D. Capelle. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Weirick, Mr. and Mrs. George Sale, and L. M. Nelson.

CLASS ELEVENS ARE SUDDENLY REVIVED

Teams Will Again Contest for Denison Trophy—Two Games Probably Saturday.

There has been a sudden revival of class spirit at the high school and the contest for the Denison trophy cup, have been revived. No game, to be played this Saturday, has been arranged for the first team and it is altogether likely that two interclass games, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, will be played on day after tomorrow. Early in the year the Seniors and Freshmen elected captains and teams were talked of, but no schedule was made out and the idea of class teams for a time abandoned. Meetings of the boys of the four classes were planned for today or tomorrow at the close of school and eleven were to be organized. Harvey Lee is captain of the Seniors and Leo Howland of the freshmen.

PLEASANT SURPRISE FOR A BRIDE-TO-BE

Miss Clithero and Miss Bates Entertained for Miss Florence Rider Last Evening.

Miss Alice Clithero and Miss Ethel Bates entertained last evening in an unique and charming manner a company of friends at the home of Miss Bates. The affair was in the nature of a surprise in honor of Miss Florence Rider's approaching marriage. After showering the guest of honor with many useful kitchen utensils all proceeded to have a jolly time with games and music. The various prizes during the evening were in the form of kitchen utensils, which helped swell the mirth. At ten o'clock all marched to the dining-room, which was beautifully decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums and similar intermingled. Very original refreshments were served and after toasting the health of the future bride the guests showered Miss Rider with the bank of chrysanthemums, which formed the centerpiece of the table, under which was discovered a Haviland china salad dish and chop plate, being the gift from the girls. All report a thoroughly enjoyable time.

LADIES IN POWDERED WIGS AND CRINOLINE

Danced the Minuet and Played Euchre at Home of Mrs. H. G. Carter Yesterday.

Thirty ladies, resplendent in hoop-skirts and powdered wigs after the fashion of Martha Washington's birthday, participated in a unique entertainment for the Ladies' Afternoon Euchre club given at the home of Mrs. H. G. Carter on Pleasant street yesterday afternoon. Footmen in long white coats, knee breeches, and white stove-pipes, were aboard the carriages and after an old fashioned repast and a few hours devoted to euchre and music, the minuet was danced. The prizes at the card tables were won by Mrs. M. G. Jeffers, Mrs. E. P. Doty, and Mrs. C. S. Jackson.

SURPRISE PARTY TENDERED MR. AND MRS. R. W. GOUGH

Students and Former Students of Business College Self-Invited Guests.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Gough last evening at their home, 217 South High street, by about fifty of the students and ex-students of the Southern Wisconsin Business college. Mr. Gough has recently severed his connection with the college and is about to engage in a business undertaking in this city. During Mr. Gough's connection with the school the shorthand and penmanship departments, over which he presided, were always kept in a high state of efficiency. The evening was spent pleasantly in games of various kinds, for which prizes were awarded, after which Mr. Gough was presented with a handsome mantle clock. The address was read by Miss Sadie Raught.

DEADLY SHREDDER IS AT WORK AGAIN

William Conway Had Both Arms Crushed and Mangled Yesterday—Geo. Gower Lost Thumb and Fingers.

Yesterday the deadly corn-shredder commenced its terrible work of maiming and mutilating the men who operate it in Rock county. Of the two victims, William Conway, who lives about six miles from the village of Leyden, was so seriously injured that he may not survive. Both arms were caught in the grinding mechanism and so badly mangled before a rescue could be effected that a double amputation was necessary. Drs. Palmer and Farnsworth were summoned last evening and found upon their arrival that while the rescuers had done what they could to stop the flow of blood, they had succeeded only in a small measure. George Gower, who resides three miles south of the city, was the other victim. The thumb, forefinger, and little finger were torn from his right hand. Dr. E. F. Woods was called to dress the mutilated member.

CIRCULATING BOUND VOLUMES OF THE ST. NICHOLAS FROM CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Donated Magazines Are Bound in Volumes and Given Out on Cards As Books.

Large numbers of copies of the St. Nicholas, a popular monthly magazine for children and young people, have been donated to the children's public library from time to time in the past and are now being put to good use. In all there were twenty-six complete volumes, all duplicates of the shelf volumes which are kept in the library, and these were bound. They are now being circulated on cards as are books and proving very popular. Miss Rose Hathorn, children's librarian, is seeking more back numbers of this periodical for the same purpose. Those having such magazines and not caring to keep them longer will confer a favor upon the public by presenting them to the library or notifying the management that they may be had by calling for them.

THREAT TO SUE FRANK P. STARR

WAS MADE BY SUPERVISOR J. L. BEAR

ON RE-USE OF THE BOARD

To Demand Return of $423.40 Illegally Received by Him for Hiring Assistance in Office.

Considerable time was devoted by the county board at its session this afternoon to a matter introduced by Supervisor J. L. Bear's resolution, to the effect that the district attorney be instructed to make a demand on F. P. Starr, ex-county clerk, for monies that he illegally received by him for extra clerk hire for the years 1900 and 1901—$100; 1901 and 1902—$150; 1902 and 1903—$150; fees for marriage licenses prior to 1900—$33.40; in all $423.40; and that if not paid the district attorney be instructed to commence proceedings at once to collect the same. District Attorney Newhouse rendered a carefully prepared opinion to the effect that under the statutes these appropriations made by the board were illegal, void, and unauthorized. At the present time the law makes provision for a deputy at a salary of $300. But during the years in question there was no such provision, and it was stipulated by the law that the county clerk was to receive no more than his salary. The board in good faith, it appears, made these special appropriations, believing that in so doing it was acting in its power. In concluding his exhaustive presentation of the case District Attorney Newhouse said that he wanted it to be understood that he did not recommend any action on the part of the board—he was just giving the law as he found it.

Bear Demands Action

F. P. Starr was called upon to speak on suggestion of Supervisor Smiley. He said that he could take no exception to the case as presented by the district attorney. Technically, the board doubtless had the right to ask for the return of the money. But as a matter of fairness he wished to say that the help was absolutely necessary and both the clerks who had preceded and followed him had been unable to get along without it. During his first year in office no appropriation was made and he did not ask for assistance when it was provided him in the second year. At best fifty cents a day was a small enough sum for competent help. Supervisor Gettle said that while the board legally had a right to recover, morally—as between man and man—it had not the shadow of a claim and he did not think his constituency or that of his colleagues would approve of the board's acting the part of Shylock in taking the pound of flesh. He moved that the matter be laid over until the November meeting a year hence. Supervisor Bear objected on the ground that some of the claims might be outlawed and said if the board indulged in sharp practice he would demand the recovery of the money today and proceed in the courts as a common taxpayer. The motion to lay over was carried. Supervisor Bear alone voting "no." He then introduced a written demand as a taxpayer. Supervisor Smiley moved to lay this demand over till January and Supervisor Jones offered an amendment that it be laid on the table indefinitely. He afterwards withdrew the amendment and the resolution to lay over till January carried.

Tax Levy for County

W. E. Egan, W. E. Shoemaker, and J. L. Bear, as a committee, reported the tax levy needed for the following year. The Merchants and Mechanics' bank was made the depository of the county monies, its offer of 3 1/2 per cent interest being the best submitted. By a resolution the salary of the janitor of the courthouse was raised from $50 to $60 a month beginning with Jan. 1. An appropriation of $15 for the chairman for countersigning orders was made. By resolution it was agreed that when the board adjourned it should be to meet on Jan. 16. The supervisors expected to finish their work this afternoon.

HUNDRED SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS IN CONVENTION

More than a hundred school board clerks, with a few other board members from the second Rock county school district are gathered in annual convention in the auditorium of the high school building here today. The meeting is held in accordance with the state law and Superintendent O. D. Antisdel of Afton is presiding. The territory represented in those present includes all school districts east of Rock river and all in the town of Rock, numbering about one hundred.

The first session was held this morning at half-past nine. Superintendent H. C. Buell of this city opening it with an address on "What Does the School Board Owe to the Teacher?" He said that the board should secure a good teacher for the school. This teacher should be one who has the proper preparation, has experience and a personality. Then it is the duty of the board to make his or her position secure and to encourage her. The board is also responsible for the physical conditions of the school; it should maintain a good building and have all the proper equipment. Under what the board owes to the teacher Mr. Buell spoke on two sub-topics. He said she is entitled to the moral support of the board in matters of discipline and at least a respectful toleration for her methods of instructing, if not actual encouragement. In elaborating on the latter he severely criticized those board members who have ridiculed vertical writing, the teaching of agriculture and the word method. A wordy discussion of two hours' duration followed this address.

Others to speak this morning were Chief Clerk C. L. Harper of Madison and Superintendent F. E. Converse of Beloit. The former spoke on "Some Important New School Laws," explaining the letter of the recent school legislation and stating its purposes. The latter's theme was "Compulsory Education" and he dealt most thoroughly with this topic which is such an important one in the rural district where the school children can be used to advantage on the farm and where there is no truant officer to enforce the law.

This afternoon C. L. Harper again spoke. His subject was "School Clerks' Reports" and his address was one of great interest and benefit to those present, who have the clerk duties to perform in their home districts. Professor A. A. Ugham of Whitewater this afternoon delivered an address on "Agriculture." He is a recognized authority in the state on the subject of teaching agriculture in the country schools. He said in short that the farmer boy has a great deal of farm work to do, but he knows no reason for performing the great majority of his duties. These reasons are what the studying of agriculture, not from a textbook but under the direction of a well-trained teacher, is supposed to teach him. Times have changed in the past forty years and people need more than a schooling in the three Rs. Life has advanced greatly but the schools have not kept up the pace. Superintendent O. J. Korn of Rockford is to speak late this afternoon on "Centralization of Schools." State Superintendent C. P. Cary is present and will doubtless speak to the board members.

FOOTBALL MASKS AT FASHIONABLE PARTY

Even Boxing Gloves Were Included at the Request of Several Members of Club.

In Janesville there is a ladies' afternoon card club where good-natured but exciting and spirited wordy contests over the games takes place. The ladies meet once a week and enjoy the game and discuss each others' play very freely. What was the surprise of the club members at a recent gathering to see two of their number don football nose guards and boxing gloves before beginning their usual game. It was a hit with the entire party and is now being secretly told of amid smiles by the ladies who were present. Of course no one outside the club knows of it. No! No one!

It Was Bad Mixture: Jack Holleran, who was sent to the county jail after a wild spree in which a blend of two bottles of guaranteed liquor-habit-cure and a quart of brandy is alleged to have played a conspicuous part, has been in a delirium for several days and it has been necessary to call in a physician six times. For five nights he has got no sleep.

Notable Football Generals

Quarterbacks of Past and Present Well Qualified For the Handling of an Eleven—What the Difficult Position Requires in a Man.

The quarterbacks are the little generals of the gridiron who hold the future of their great football elevens figuratively and literally in the hollow of their hands. They are the brains of the campaign, the synopses on the field of all that mass of gridiron skill and

JONES, PRESENT YALE QUARTERBACK, holding which is the coaches' contribution to the success of their alma maters.

These are the little commanders on whose shoulders must rest the ultimate weight of responsibility. And when you have a good quarterback you have nearly the perfect athlete. What a history in football has this wonderful position—Edgar Allan Poe, Phil King, Dudley Deam, Trufford, Vance McCormick, Duly, De Saules, Carl Williams, Bucky Vail, Clark Wyckoff, Hudson, the Indian, Bookwalter—a fascinating host.

Beckersall of Chicago leads in the position today, followed by Jones of Yale, Starr of Harvard and Stevenson of Pennsylvania.

Twice big men have played this position successfully, but as a rule the great records have been made by men standing no more than five feet nine inches and weighing at the outside figure 100 pounds. And, above all, they must have brains. As one coach put it, "My quarter weighs 145 pounds, but every ounce of it is brains."

Football as it is played in the United States is a war game. More than any other sport, its season is a campaign. The quarterback who handles successfully one of the great elevens of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Chicago, Michigan, Wisconsin or Pennsylvania must know as much football as his in-

STEVENS, PENNSYLVANIA QUARTERBACK, structures, but even in a broader sense he must be a master. He must be an opportunist, ready to seize the advantage of a second, to read the design written on the faces of his foes, able to translate it for the benefit of his big, square shouldered forwards. His is a battle against time, against odds of circumstance, as the great game develops, and yet physically there must be no finer player on the team.

Hoppe's Challenge.

"Student" Slosson Won't Meet the Young Billiard Phenomenon.

Willie Hoppe has withdrawn his certified check for $500 deposited with a New York billiard table company as a forfeit in support of his challenge to George Slosson for a billiard match at 18.2 ball line and has turned his attention to players now in Paris in the expectation that his deft has excited the attention of some expert over there who may accept.

The Paris representative of the billiard company cabled over for a copy of the challenge, which has been sent, together with Slosson's declination to accept, and it is thought that one of the stars now in Paris may wish to play the boy wonder. While he did not make an open challenge, Hoppe is willing to play any one, Champion Vignaux in particular.

Slosson insists that his refusal to accept at this time was largely due to the hope that leading players now in Paris and in America might shortly meet here in a big international tournament, of which there is a very strong possibility, in view of the probable closing of the Paris academies, which would cause players to come over here. In this case Slosson claims that a match game now would dull interest in the tourney. If the tournament is held Slosson says he will bet Hoppe to a standstill on individual results and averages.

Hoppe's challenge has placed him prominently before the public as a candidate for championship honors, and the youth is likely to be a big favorite in any contest in which he may enter as a competitor.

When "Student" Slosson was seen recently he declared that he had no intention of playing Hoppe or paying any attention to his challenge, which is for 1,500 or 2,500 points at eighteen inch ball line, with two counts in ball. Slosson declared that he was ready to enter into a tournament with Schaefer, Sutton, Cure, Morningstar, Vignaux or any of the leading Frenchmen. He would make a match with any of them singly, but that Hoppe must make his mark in a tournament first.

The prospect of such a tournament as Slosson outlined is promising for the coming season. In fact, Julius Balke has sailed for Paris with the intention of returning with several of the top class professionals for a tournament at eighteen inch ball line, two counts in ball. That he will be successful in making the arrangements is certain, for both Jacob Schaefer and Hoppe have had their contracts for Paris academy play canceled because of the French court's decision against the gambling feature of the games. This means a hard winter for the billiardists in Paris, and they will be eager to get into some money play in this country, especially as the scheme contemplates tournaments in New York, Chicago and St. Louis.

Gardner on Nelson's Trail.

Battling Nelson will not long be permitted to enjoy the honors accruing from his recent achievement in beating Britt, for Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., is hot upon his trail now, and the public indulges his claim to being the next logical candidate for the Battler's consideration. Gardner says he will make any reasonable concession, so eager is he to meet the Dane.

Gardner claims that all he wants is to get Nelson into the ring with him and he says he will meet him on the same terms on which the Battler met Britt.

The Lowell man is willing to make 133 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the fight and will make a side bet of sufficient size to make it interesting for the pride of Hogewich. Gardner is also willing to post a forfeit that he will make the stipulated weight.

Gardner's attitude makes a fight between the pair almost assured, and his determination to get a match with Nelson will please followers of the game throughout the country. The sports have been clamoring for a go between the pair, but the weight question always stood in the way. It was generally thought that Gardner could not do better than 135 pounds, but now that he is willing to fight at 133 pounds he puts it up to Nelson and Nelson to either fight or take to the timbers.

Not a cent wanted, unless you are cured. If you are sick and ailing, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. A great blessing to the human family. Makes you well—keeps you well. 25 cents, ten or tablets. Smith Drug Co.

TO CURTAIL FEDERAL CONTROL

American Federation Goes on Record Regarding Functions of Government.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 16.—Recognizing the danger of public ownership of employees of public utilities, the American Federation of Labor urged that the functions of government, national, state and city, as employers of labor, be limited instead of extended, as the sentiment in favor of enlarging the administrative powers of government spreads.

Denouncing the policy adopted by the postal clerks' organization in refusing to affiliate with the national labor body on the ground that it would be inconsistent with the policy of the government and degrading such a policy as a dangerous tendency of public thought in its relation to the welfare of trades union solidarity delegates succeeded in putting the federation on record in favor of organization of employees of the government in all civic branches.

Closer alliance of unionism and the church was urged as another possibility for awakening public sentiment in the cause of organized labor, and in this connection the church and labor department recently organized by the national Presbyteries. The Presbyterian church was ind.

Wonders of a Modern Factory

Machinery Does the Work of Human Hands and the Perfect Food is Made in Absolute Cleanliness.

A visit to the greatest modern food factory is a revelation to anyone not familiar with the development of machinery in recent years. Such a visit verifies the claims of the manufacturers of Malta-Vita, that this perfect whole-wheat food is cooked, steamed, mixed, baked and packed in absolute cleanliness.

"Purity" is the watchword of this wonderful establishment. From the time the wheat is received in the factory until the finished product is shipped out to all parts of the world, Malta-Vita is not soiled by human hands. Machinery, clean, shining machinery, conveys the wheat through all the long process, even to the packing and sealing of the airtight, germ-proof, dirt-proof packages.

After the wheat has been thoroughly cooked and steamed it is mixed with pure barley malt extract, and each grain of the malted wheat is rolled into a wafer-like flake. Then it goes to the great ovens where, under intense heat, it is baked crisp and brown—Malta-Vita, the most delicious and most healthful food in the world.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat. No cooking. No inconvenience. And you never tasted anything quite so good. Try a bowlful with cream or fruit. To those who have used it and know how delicious and sustaining Malta-Vita is, a perfect breakfast is next to impossible without it, and it's just as good three times a day. All grocers sell Malta-Vita now at ten cents per package.

The Opportunity is Here, Backed by Janesville Testimony.

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement. Read Janesville endorsement. Read the statements of Janesville citizens.

And decide for yourself. Here is one case of it: Mrs. Charles Potter, of 128 Washington St., Janesville, Wis., says: "My husband had kidney trouble for a number of years and it affected his back and limbs so as to keep him complaining all the time with pain. The backache and pain in the joints were especially severe. He used a number of kidney and backache remedies that did not help him and finally seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in the Janesville papers, I went to the People's Drug Company and got a box for him. The result was entirely satisfactory. The pains and backache left him, and he had no return of the trouble."

UNITY IS NEEDED IN CHURCHES

ROOSEVELT IS IN SYMPATHY

President Believes Movement Would Do Great Good at Home and Be a Powerful Influence in the Christianizing of Japan.

New York, Nov. 16.—At the opening session Wednesday night of the inter-church conference of federation 600 delegates representing twenty-four denominations were present.

The chairman, J. Cleveland Cady, made the opening address. He said in part:

"Thoughtful men who have anxiously considered the questions of church federation have seen very clearly that its permanence and highest results would be secured only when it became a federation—not of volunteer and ephemeral workers, but of the great denominations and churches themselves.

Churches Will Be United.

"These churches, differing as they may in form and procedure, will be united in service and spirit—which is, after all, the only thing that greatly moves or blesses the world. It is the deep and widespread hope of this that has brought together this great conference of the representatives of twenty-eight denominations, having 17,000,000 communicants."

"The Christian people of the land have raised their voices for the grasp of fellowship; business men have demanded it; ministers and missionaries have pleaded for it. Until today we stand on the threshold of what is greatly hoped will be the beginning of an era of brotherly co-operation, and of a united effort for righteousness, in which the church of God will put forth its mighty strength."

Letter from President.

At the close of Chairman Cady's address the following letter from President Roosevelt was read:

"I have the very highest sympathy with the movement. For instance, I feel that indirectly, in addition to the great good it will do here, it is perfectly possible that the movement may have a very considerable effect in the Christianizing of Japan, which I feel to be retarded by the divisions among ourselves and by the failure to recognize the fact that the Christian church in Japan must of course assume essentially a Japanese national form."

"So you see I have a very real interest in what you are doing, and only wish it were in my power to attend the meeting, as you request, but I regret to say that it is out of the question for me to do so."

Prominent Ministers Present.

On the platform during the session were the members of the committee, among whom were the Revs. Dr. W. H. Roberts, Frank Mason North, John B. Calvert, William I. Haven, Joachim Elmendorf, Charles L. Thompson, Kery Boyce Tupper, and William Hayes Ward, and Messrs. Stephen Baker and J. Cleveland Cady.

BISHOP CRANSTON IS MARRIED

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—Rev. Earl Cranston of Washington, bishop in the Methodist Episcopal church, and Miss Lucia Mason Parker were married at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at the home of William Christie Herron, an uncle of the bride, Bishop D. H. Moore of Portland, Ore., officiating. The wedding was a quiet one, only close friends and relatives being present.

Bishop Cranston and his bride will spend two weeks in New York before going to their home in Washington.

Convulsion, Fits, then Epilepsy.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has been so successful in curing these brain-wrecking diseases that there is every reason to believe that even the most hopeless cases can be benefited, if not fully restored.

We will be pleased to refer any one thus afflicted to many who now enjoy the blessing of health, after years of hopeless suffering.

"I have a son that had brain fever when two years old, followed by fits of the worst kind, and he was pronounced incurable. I spent hundreds of dollars for him, without relief. After about fifteen years he became so bad that we sent him to Longfellow hospital for the insane, at Logansport, Ind. He was there nearly three years, but he could not grow worse, so we brought him home July 20, 1902, in an awful condition. He had lost his mind almost entirely. He only knew one of the family; could not even find his bed; was a total wreck. He had from 5 to 10 fits a day. We were urged to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, and before the first bottle was used, we could see a change for the better. We have given it to him ever since, and he has had but two very light spells since last August, 1903, and then he was not well other ways. We pronounce him cured, as he can work and go anywhere. If any one wishes to ask any questions concerning this life-saving medicine, write to Dr. E. H. BUNNELL, Lincoln, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

HIGHWAYMAN MURDERS A GIRL

Probably Fatally Injures Victim's Sister Near Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 16.—Josephine Oom was instantly killed and her sister probably fatally wounded by a hold-up man Wednesday night a quarter of a mile outside of the city limits. The two girls, with their father, Jacob Oom, were driving home along East Bridge street. When they were passing a small thicket a man stepped from the woods into the street and commanded them all to hold up their hands. Instead of heeding the demand the father whipped up his horses to get by. The highwayman thereupon fired twice, the first shot killing Josephine instantly and the second wounding Jennie seriously. After the second shot the man disappeared in the woods. The police have begun a search for the murderer.

STRONG STAND FOR OPEN SHOP

Industrial Association Is Opposed to Lockouts and Strikes.

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—In dealing with the labor conditions of the country the Citizens' Industrial Association of America took a strong stand Wednesday at the third annual convention of the organization, which opened here, declaring against strikes and lockouts and for the "open shop" principle.

The slogan was: "No interference with any man who wants to work."

C. W. Post of Battle Creek, Mich., president of the association, outlined its policy in a vigorous address that drew forth the applause and commendation of the 400 delegates in attendance, representing the employers of 3,000,000 men. He declared that arbitration through the Citizens' Association was a better way to adjust labor disputes than by fighting with strikes and lockouts as weapons.

PASSENGER TRAIN IN A WRECK

Both trains were south bound. The train was stopped suddenly by a broken air hose. The caboose of the meat train was thrown down the embankment. Passengers on the passenger train were somewhat shaken. It is reported there was no casualties.

The judge refused a divorce to Mrs. John Alcott, although she showed her husband had been addicted to Sunday spree for years, declaring that as long as the man stayed sober week days he was not a habitual drunkard.

CHAPTER XVII.

ALIDA heard the mingled sounds of footsteps and hoofs grow fainter on the trail. The children looked at her to tell them why this night was different from all others—what was happening. But she could only cover among them, more terrified than they. She seemed to be shrunk from the happenings of that day. They hardly knew the little, shriveled gray woman who looked at them with unfamiliar eyes. Alida gazed at the little Judith, and there was something in her mother's glance that made the little one hide her face in her sister's shoulder. Young Judith it was who all unwittingly had told the lynchers that her father was at home, and in Alida's heart there was toward this child a blind, unreasoning hate. Better had she never been born than live to do this thing!

It was the wee man, Jim, who first began to reflect resentfully on this intrusion on his slumbers. He had been sleeping well and comfortably when some grownups came with a lot of noise, and his father had gone away with them. It had frightened him, but his mother was here, and why should she not put him to sleep again?

"Murvy, sing 'Dway Wolf' for Dimmy." And as she said no word, but looked at him, white faced and strange, he again repeated, with his most insinuating and beguiling tricks of eye and smile:

"Murvy, sing 'Dway Wolf' for Dimmy." The child put his head in his mother's lap, and Alida began, scarcely knowing what she did:

"The gray wolves are coming fast over the hill. Run fast, little lamb; do not baa, do not bleat."

For the gray wolves are hungry; they come here to kill.

And the lambs shall be scattered—No, no, Jimmy, murvy cannot sing. Oh, can't you feel, child? Judith, Judith, why were you ever born?

It was still in the valley. Had they come to the dead cottonwoods yet? Had they begun it? The children shrank from this gray faced woman whom they did not know and but yet a little while had been their mother. An awful silence had fallen on the night. The range cattle no longer belowed in their thirst; the hot wind no longer blew from the desert. A hush of earth or air or the things that were of her ken seemed to have fallen about them, muffling the dark loneliness as by invisible flakes. The children had crouched close together for comfort. They feared the little gray faced woman who seemed to have stolen into their mother's place and looked at them with strange eyes.

Jimmy looked at the woman who held him, hoping his mother would come, and he could see them both. And while he waited he dropped off to sleep, and little Judith, hiding her head on Topeka's shoulder that she might not see the look in those accusing eyes, presently dreamed that all was well with her again, and Topeka reflected that if her mother should ask her in the morning whether she had dreamed last night she would have a fine tale to tell of men riding up and loud voices and trying of the door and father going away with them. Her mother had questioned her this morning when nothing had happened to warrant it. Surely she would ask again tomorrow, and Topeka could tell—she could tell all.

The children were sleeping easily. The hush that had hung like a pall over the valley had not lifted. Had they done it? Was it over yet? She went to the door and listened. Surely the silence that wrapped the valley was a thing apart. It was as no other silence that she could remember. It was still, still, and yet there was vibration to it, like the muffled roar within a shell. She strained her ears. Was that the sound of horsemen going down the trail? No, no, it was only the beating of her foolish heart that would not be still, but beat and fluttered and would not let her hear. Yes, surely that was the sound of hoofs. It was over then. They were going.

She would go and look for him. Perhaps it would not be too late. She had heard of such things. A dynamic force consumed her. She had no consciousness of her body. Her feet and hands did things with incredible swiftness—lighted a lantern, selected a knife, ran to the corral for an old ladder that had been there when they took possession of the deserted house—and through all her frantic haste she could feel this new force, as it were, lick up the red blood in her veins, burn her body to ashes as it gave her new power.

It was dark in the valley, but the menacing stillness seemed to be lifting. The range cattle had again taken up their plaint, the sounds of the desert night swept across the stony walls of the canyon. Alida knew that it must have happened at the dead cottonwoods. There were no other high trees about for miles. Again she listened before advancing. There was no sound of hoof or clamping bit or man moving quickly. They had gone their way into the valley. She ran swiftly, her lantern throwing its beam across the scrubby inequalities of ground, but for her there was no need of its beacon. Tonight she was beyond the halting, stumbling uncertainties of tread to which man is subject. There was magic in her feet and in her hands and brain. Like the wind she ran, the wind on the great plain where there are no foothills to hinder its course. The black, dead trees stood out distinctly against the starry sky, and from a cross trail of one of them dangled something with head awry, like a broken jumping jack, something that had once been a man—and her husband. She could touch the feet of this frightful thing and feel its human warmth. A wind came up from the desert and blew across the canyon's rocky walls into the valley, and the parody of a man swayed to it.

She had been expecting this thing. For weeks the image of it had been graven on her heart. Sleeping or waking she had seen nothing but his dangling body from the cross limb. Yet with the actual consummation before her she felt its hideous novelty as though it were unexpected. At sight of it the force that had borne her up through the happenings of that day went out of her and as she stood with the knife and the rope that she had brought in the hope of cheating the lynchers dangled from her nervous hand her helplessness overcame her.

Far down the trail she could hear the snail of a horse coming closer, and mingled with the sounds of its flying feet was a voice urging the horse to greater speed in the shrill, caustic "Hi-hi-hi-hi!" of the plainsman. What was it? One of them returning to see that she did not cheat the rope of its due? To hang her beside him as an afterthought, as they hanged Kate Watson beside her man? Let them. She was standing near the swaying thing when horse and rider gained the ground beside her, and what was left to her of consciousness made out that the rider was Judith. She pointed to it and stood helpless with the dangling rope in her hand.

"Are we too late?" Judith almost whispered as she caught Alida's cold

Something that had once been a man. Inert hands. "I dreamed it all and came. If I could have dreamed it sooner!"

Alida did not seem to hear, neither could she speak. She only pointed again to the thing beside her. Judith understood. The women had a task to share, and in silence they began it. The lynchers had done their work all too well. Again and again the women strove with all their strength to take down the dangling parody of a man, which in its dead-weight resistance seemed to league with the forces against them. At last the thing was done. Down to a pale world that in the haggard gray of morning seemed to bear in its countenance something of the pinch of death Judith lowered the thing that had so lately been a man. She cut the rope away from the neck, she straightened the wry neck that seemed to wag in pantomimic representation of the last word to the lynchers. They'd have to reckon with him on dark nights and when the wind wailed like a famished wolf and when things not to be explained lurked in the shadows of the desert.

The morning stillness came flooding into the cup shaped valley like a soft, resistless wave. Something had come to the gray old earth—another day, with all its human gift of joy and woe—and the earth welcomed it, though it had known so many. The sun burst through the gold tipped aureole of cloud, scattering far and wide lavish promises of a perfect day. The earth seemed to respond with a thrill. No longer was the pinch of death in her countenance. The valley, the mountains, the invisible wind, even the dead cottonwoods, seemed endowed with something like the terrible nullity of this thing that once had been Jim Rodney.

Alida had ceased to take any part in the hideous drama. She sat on the ground, a crouched thing, with glittering eyes. It was past comprehension that the sun would shine and the world go on with her man dead before her. Judith had become the force that planned and did to save the family pride. While her hands were busy with preparations for the dead she rehearsed what she would say to this and that one to account for Jim's absence. The silence of the men who had done this thing would be as steadfast as their own.

And there were the children. Through all her frantic search for things in the

Alida still crouched beside the loup, even tarpaulin roll that Judith had prepared with hands that knew not what they did. But now Judith gently raised her and put in her hand a square. Already she herself had begun. But Alida stared at it dully, as if she did not understand. Then Judith pointed to something black that had begun to wheel in the sky, wheel and with each circular swoop came closer to the roll of tarpaulin. Then Alida knew, and, taking the spade, she and Judith began to dig the grave.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

"Uncle Si Haskins"
Rural comedy-drama seems to be the best attractions for business this season. At the Grand "Uncle Si Haskins" was on the boards and packed the house yesterday, both afternoon and evening. We have had several rural comedy-dramas here this season and "Uncle Si Haskins" has as good a plot as "Way Down East," "York State Folks" or "Old Homestead." The specialties introduced during the performance deserve special mention.—Sioux City, Iowa, Journal, Jan. 14, 1905. Will appear at the Myers Grand Saturday, Nov. 18, matinee and night; matinee at 2:30.

Fistic Battle
There has been many great fistic battles during the past ten years, but no combat yet waged could surpass in fury and vigor the recent mill between Battling Nelson and James Edward Brit. This contest was so fierce, so desperate, and withal so fairly waged, that it will live forever in the memories of all who saw the Titanic struggle. Only a few people, of course, could reach California to see the actual, veritable battle, but those who could not go can still see every blow and every movement of the fray. The motion pictures taken at the ringside, when developed, turned out to be by miles the finest set of fight films ever seen, perfect from start to finish, unequalled in clearness and perfection. The man who was not at the ringside, after seeing those pictures, can talk on terms of equal knowledge with the man who occupied a ringside chair. Nothing is missing—the fight from opening going to knockout is on the screen, and ready for inspection. The real thing, the genuine article, and the finest motion pictures ever shown—that is the unanimous verdict wherever the pictures have been seen. J. W. Coffroth, president of the Colma (Cal.) Athletic club, where the fight occurred, is the owner of the copyrighted films, and Lou M. Houseman, the Chicago sporting writer, has acquired the exclusive right to the pictures in the middle west. These famous pictures will be seen at the Myers Grand Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 20-21; matinee daily at 2:30.

SALVATION ARMY CAPTAIN PLEADED

With the Outlook in Janesville and Interest Being Taken in Work—Ensign Symonds Speaks.

Ensign Symonds, who assisted in the organization of the first Salvation Army Corps this side of the Atlantic, delivered a stirring address on the subject "Rest For You" at the local barracks last evening and the audience quite filled the hall. She will be heard again this evening. Capt. Smith is very much encouraged over the outlook in Janesville. He says that with one or two instances excepted, the collections have been sufficient to carry on the work here and he has not been required to go to the business men for aid. There have been twenty converts since he took the work here and several new recruits are soon to be received into the army. Only this morning two boxes of clothing from a Lake Geneva lady named Mrs. C. O. LaSalle, were received and the gift will be appreciated by the destitute to whom the articles will be taken. While no special plans have been made for Thanksgiving, the Army will make arrangements either to distribute baskets or give a dinner on Christmas Day.

There are neither distilleries, breweries nor saloons in Persia, and the only beverage of an intoxicating sort is a wine, which, to the stranger, tastes too much like medicine to be indulged in in quantity.

DRAINAGE BOARD FILES ANSWER TO CANAL SUIT

State of Illinois Joins in Declaring Missouri Is Not Entitled to Relief Because Evidence Is Defective.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Felix J. Streyckmans, acting for the state of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago, have filed with the United States Supreme Court a reply to the injunction suit of the State of Missouri brought to stop the operation of the Chicago drainage canal. The case will come up for final argument Jan. 2. The answer filed two large volumes containing more than 1,500 pages of printed matter. It is made in two separate parts, one being for the state and the other for the sanitary district. For the state a specific argument, replying in detail to the twenty-nine allegations of the complainant, with an additional argument setting forth the purification of the Illinois river through the opening of the canal, is signed by Howland J. Hamlin as special attorney.

It is asserted that the State of Missouri is not entitled to the relief asked for because evidence submitted is not "determinate and satisfactory," as required by the court in a previous ruling on a demurrer. It is set forth that scientific testimony of more than 300 witnesses has proved that typhoid bacilli which enter the Chicago drainage canal die long before they reach the Mississippi river, and that the state of Missouri has submitted no evidence to refute this.

Costly Russian Caviar.
Genuine Russian caviar is one of the most costly commodities. A tablespoonful of it costs $2. Twice as much ordinary caviar can be bought for a quarter, but they who have once tasted the real thing never again return to the substitute—sturgeon-roe—for Russian caviar is as different from sturgeon roe as plover is from crow.

A Word for the Tyrant.

Why the Audience Sneezed.
A practical joker sprinkled cayenne pepper over the heads of the audience in the pit of the Blackpool (Eng.) Hippodrome. The draught from the floor carried the pepper into every part of the auditorium and there was such an epidemic of sneezing that the voices of the artists were drowned. The "joker" escaped.

BLOCK ISLAND NOTES.

Natives Are Purest New Englanders Who Get Their Living from the Sea.

Block island is a grassy green and there are no snakes there. The Celtic residents of Worcester, Boston and Providence have found this out and furnish most of the summer visitors, says the New York World. The natives are the purest of New Englanders. There are about 1,200 of them. When mackerel are running, the fishermen get three cents a pound for them. Swordfish, the next great catch, fetch four cents at the dock and about one dollar per pound at the hotels. There is a grave marked 1087 in the ancient cemetery. The birth-date—that of a woman—is of the year before Shakespeare died. The first citizen of Block island was born the year of Shakespeare's death and lived to be 102 years old.

The men live and die on the sea. Lost in sight of home and loved ones," is a line on a recent tomb. Modern wrecks are of steel vessels and they refuse to break up. There is little in a wreck nowadays for the populace except excitement. For transportation the island is up to New York. It still sticks to horse cars and has two of them.

POPULATION OF RUSSIA.

Enormous Total, Religious Divisions and Members of the Nobility.

Final results of the Russian census of 1897 are still appearing at intervals. Among the latest figures published by the statistical department are the following: The total population of the Russian empire (excluding Finland) on May 10, 1897, was 126,586,525. Of these 87,123,604 were members of the orthodox church. Old believers and other sects numbered 2,204,590; Mohammedans, 13,996,972; Roman Catholics, 11,467,994; Jews, 5,215,805; Protestants, (Lutherans), 3,572,653.

A division of the population on the basis of classes gives the following results: Hereditary nobles, 1,220,169; nobles for life, or by virtue of office, 620,119; priests of all Christian denominations, 588,947; honorable citizens, 342,927; merchants, 281,173; bourgeois, peasants, 98,896,648; Cossacks, 2,328,842; foreigners, 8,297,955; illiterates, numbered 99,070,436 (79 per cent.); literates, 26,569,585. Students at the universities and other institutions for higher education numbered 104,321.

Handled Dynamite Too Carelessly.
At the Atlas mine, Southern California, Mrs. A. W. McNae, who had just arrived from Bakersfield in her buggy, proceeded to hand out to her husband what she had bought in town. Among other things was a 25-pound box of dynamite. In the transfer it dropped. The explosion killed Mr. and Mrs. McNae, a six-year-old son and three bystanders.

Underground Garden.
A clever Dublinite has turned a deserted wine-cellar in his native city into an underground market garden. In this retreat, which once sheltered barrels and casks of fiery liquors, now grow sea-kale, rhubarb and mushrooms. As the produce is right in the heart of the market district, the city farmer has no railway charges to pay, and in truth many of his customers, desirous of obtaining fresh vegetables, visit his underground farm and select what they desire by the light of a lantern.

Benzine Buggies in Germany.
In Germany a motorist can be punished for allowing his car to give off a strong smell of benzine. A German automobilist was fined for this offense recently, and appealed to a higher court. It has now been decided that punishment for such an offense can only be meted out "when the smell of the benzine is so great as to force passers-by to take another road."

An Invalid.
Frankie—Papa, what's the difference between being sick and an invalid?
Papa—An invalid, my boy, is one who makes those around him sick.—N. Y. Times.
